There is much discontent over currency stabilization and incidents in factories and street cars have taken place. The Government paid salaries to the workers before stabilization, after which this money had practically no value. Orders were given to make advance payments on workers' salaries, but these had to be cancelled. The black market is functioning at an increased pace everywhere. Many peasants are refusing to plant. In the districts of Oltul, Valcea, Mehedinti and Neamt militia troops had to be called in to prevent peasant revolts.
